Explanation of Function Service Subscription Rules

I. Scope of Application

For the functional services, you need to subscribe to the function package when your store is on the official version.

II. Specification Explanation of Functional Service Duration

(1) When you purchase functional services during the store service period, you can choose a specification that matches the remaining duration of the store or choose to purchase by year within the remaining duration of the store;

For example, if the remaining duration of your store is 370 days, you can choose to purchase a 370 - day functional service duration or purchase by 1 - year;

(2) When you renew the store version while purchasing functional services, you can choose to purchase a function package specification that matches the duration after renewing the store version;

For example, if the remaining duration of your store is 90 days and you renew it for 1 year at this time, you can purchase a 455 - day (90 days + 365 days) functional service duration or choose a specification less than 455 days, that is, purchase by 1 - year;

(3) If the service duration of your store has expired, please renew the store version first and then purchase the service duration;

III. Calculation Rules for Functional Service Specifications

When newly purchasing/renewing functional services:

Subscription price = (Pricing of functional services/365) * (Remaining duration of the store - Remaining duration of the functional services)

When renewing the store version and purchasing/renewing functional services at the same time:

Subscription price = (Pricing of functional services/365) * (Remaining duration of the store + Duration of the renewed version - Remaining duration of the functional services)
