

How to set up individual sales for chapter content within a course series?

One course series supports individual sales, and multiple chapter contents under the course series support separate sales (for specific steps, please refer to the video tutorial):

- 1) Create new courses for different contents to be sold. After creating new courses, you can use the 'Import from existing courses' option in the course catalog to import the course contents to be sold separately with one click.
- 2) There are three ways to display multiple courses:
 - ? Product recommendation: On one course page, learners can click 'Related recommendations' to see other courses available for purchase.
 - ? Combo products: On one product link, learners can select courses with different specifications for purchase.
 - ? Micro - page: One page supports custom decoration to display different course contents.
